BASE BALL

Travers plays at Lomond next Thursday, the 29th. Don't miss the fun.

The Base Ball season opened yesterday by Lomond winning from Retlaw, at Retlaw, in a score of 15-14 while Enchant won from Travers, at Travers, with a score of six to five.

The local boys took quite a few fans with them for the game, when you consider the wild wind that was blowing and the distance to travel. Lomond went to bat first, fanning down without a run. Retlaw scored two runs in her first turn. Lomond had it their own way from then to the sixth innings, being up to then eleven runs. Haight had been pitching a very good game for Lomond, but being green on the job for this year, desired relief. Bacon, who had played an excellent game on second took the box but the Retlaw fellows were too handy with the stick and pounded in six runs on his innings. Haight went back to the box till the ninth when he tired completely, forcing several runs on balls. At this stage the score stood fifteen to fourteen with two men down. Witting took over the box and finished the game, holding it for the home boys. There was quite a bit of excitement at the end as it was thought a tie, when the score markers put together they found an error in their addition and everything was over. The score would lead one to think that the game was anything but interesting, which is quite to the contrary. True, there were a good many errors the part of both teams but this is nothing more than expected in the first year of the season. Lomond has a fine line-up of amateur players, and there is no reason why there should be any decline in interest in the game this year. Haight and Witting will make a safe battery and they have the happy faculty of being able to interchange their positions. The bases were well manned. The batting could be improved a bit in some cases and perhaps now that the enthusiasm has been aroused a few practice games will bring this up to scratch.

The umpiring at Retlaw was fair.

If Bob Plunkett had been at Retlaw the score might have been different.

We don't know what Swain took at Retlaw, but he maneuvered some queer dicos before he found his way inside ball grounds.

And that was a happy bunch of kids that were picknicking by the roadside on the way home from the game.

TEACHERS TAKE NOTE

The Alberta Teacher's Association has decided not to hold the Annual Spring Convention this year because of the epidemic. This prevents us from having our usual Alumni function.

The executive has decided to hold a "Silent Banquet" in honor of Our Boys, who were members of our Association, and who so willingly offered their all on the fields of Europe.

Each member is requested to send in a subscription of $1.00 to be used in placing in the Camrose School a suitable Memorial to our fallen heroes. It is also decided to place in the library of our school an enlarged group of all our members who enlisted for overseas service.

Lost, between Lomond and Travers on May 16th., a ladies' purse. Finder kindly leave with H. E. Branscombe at Travers or at The Press office.

The Provincial Government has fixed the price of liquors as sold through the drug stores, allowing them a limit of 25 per cent profit. You can now get Three Star Hennessy at $5.00—if you can secure the credentials.

T. A. Kennedy made a trip to the city to the city on Tuesday, returning Thursday. W. A. Macdonald went along as a guiding star.

Rev. A. T. Bell went to Lethbridge on Wednesday.

While it cannot be said that anything is actually suffering from the lack of moisture, the visitation of a season of rain would be most welcome and would relieve the tension in both farming and business operations. The snow storm did not distribute itself very well and just now the crops are coming along principally from the shower of rain that fell a week ago Thursday. Wheat crops are coming along fine and in some cases the grain makes a solid mat of green. Foster predicts a decided change in the weather the first week in June, so THE PRESS will wait and see how he makes out with the weather man before taking things in hand.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Rodgers, on May 12th., a son.

The Provincial Board of health has ordered that all stock fallen in the blizzard shall be buried, and has added a of a heavy penalty for non-compliance with the order. The A. P. Police will have enforcement of the order.

Inspector Mundy of the A. P. police force, Lethbridge, and wife, gave Lomond a visit on Sunday, looking over the newly established detachment.

The new road work done in town gives a much appreciated improvement. The grade across the flat near the elevators, along with the cut on the south hill, is money well spent at any reasonable price. The approach to the main street from the north presents a decided improvement on the old time dden precipitation and hummocks.

Enchant U.F.A. is preparing a big celebration on July 1st. The Lomond band is engaged for the day. If they draw the crowd they did last year they will have some time of it.

Work is progressing on the printing of the prize lists for the Lomond Fair which will be held on July 31st., and anyone who has not been solicited by June first for a special and desires to give one should hand in same to the secretary at The Press office.

THE PRESS would like to see some one come through with a prize in town vegetable gardens. Quite a few are digging away for our ten dollar gold piece on flowers, but Dad Rickett says he has got the thing cinched already.

Frank Vickers was quite surprised on Sunday morning when he found a tarantula in a bunch of bananas which was hanging in the store. He has it in a jar now as a curio.

TR AVERS

Mr. Smith and family have moved out to the irrigation ditch where Mr. Smith will be ditch rider. The warehouse and offices of the Company have been torn down and removed to the ditch.

J. W. Hill of Enchant and Lomond was looking up a shipment of hogs this week. He suggested that a stock yard be installed in Travers as the farmers in this district have to haul their stock from 12 to 18 miles.

Mr. Pickram has taken a position in Purcells' general store.

Among those from Enchant calling here this week were Messrs. Towers, McCormick and H. Prouty.

Mrs. George Greenier and Mrs. Green of Minneapolis arrived Friday evening.

H. Ulrich was a Calgary caller last week.

Mrs. Thomas Woomer has gone into the poultry business very extensively.

Mr. Joiofson, east of town, returned from Medicine Hat where he has been for medical treatment.

Mr. Lochart, I. H. C. blockman, was in town this week.

Thursday was the big day here. Enchant defeated our team, the score being 6 to 5. There was not as large a crowd as usual but it being the first holiday of the season and a busy time just now on the farms, more could not be expected.

Mr. Nelson, representative of the J. I. Case Co., was a caller this week.

How is it the big grader goes from the streets of Lomond to the streets of Enchant? Our steets need several graders.

Peter Nord, west of town, was called to Winnipeg to attend the funeral of his sister.

J. W. Murphy has been given a large farming contract 18 miles from Retlaw and has moved his engine and horses down there. The contract was obtained from the Canada Land & Irrigation Co.

The carpenters have about completed their work on the Hotel "Worth" having remodeled and renovated the old building, thus making one of the cleanest and best hotels along the line.

Mr. McCoomb preached here Sunday. The Sunday school work is still progressing and the children are preparing for "Children's Day".

Mr. Potter, late of the Standard Bank has now taken over the Travers-Champion stage route, and will now leave Travers every morning at nine.

Guy Keating and Art Rounds made a trip to McLeod, Stavely and Lethbridge last week.

TR AVERS New Store

Are you satisfied with the old-time country store, with its out-of-date methods and general appearance of old age?

The farmer of to-day uses new methods and new machinery. Why not the country merchant?

The grocery business is a highly specialized trade.

It demands the undivided attention of experts in all parts of the world.

It is entirely separate and distinct from any other business.

It cannot be successfully conducted as a side line.

regret we are not in a position to write a testimonial that would be welcomed in a C.P.R. or Canadian Government land guide. Nevertheless, we will state that for most part we have enjoyed good health and good friends, and as Jack Paisley says, "we never had to go without a meal yet, tho' we postponed a few courses on a good many of them."

If the government is going to let out any more homesteads they should establish a school of efficiency for the benefit of the intending settlers. When we look back and call to mind all the fool stunts we pulled off, which were a complete waste of energy, we quite sympathize with the sense of horror so many hold of the mere idea of homesteading. There were lots of people ready and willing to pass out advice, but as they came from every point of the compass the advice was as varied as the people. Experience is sure enough a dear school to the homesteaders.

LOCALETS

A couple of car loads of telephone materials have been lying at Lomond for a week or more, consisting of wire, cross-arms, etc. Presumably this is for the installation of the local phones and for the erection of the trunk line between here and Vulcan.

The Lauson tractor demonstration last Saturday drew the attention of quite a few men interested in mechanical power, and from the standpoint of the demonstrators was a complete success. The machine handled to a nicety three breaker bottoms over some very trying grades. Dan Ulrich was over from Champion to see how the stunt was being pulled off.

Vulcan has organized a ladies' base ball team and is inviting Lomond to afford them a little competition.

Mr. Lockhart, I.H.C. blackman, was in town this week. Mr. Moore, the Massey-Harris man, was also here, but the competitive elements apparently did not conflict.

Until further notice Lomond Local U. F. A. will discontinue its regular business assemblies. Lack of interest has played hob with the works. Now watch them all stand back and kick the government.

But the adverse conditions now prevail at Armada. Last Saturday night they crowded the school house for a meeting at which John Glambeck and B. C. Moore held forth on the vital issues of the farmer in getting back to a peace basis. The Armada people are also planning to observe U.F.A. Sunday on June 15th., importing a speaker for the day.

John Egle made a sizzling trip to Lethbridge on Wednesday.

The many friends of Mrs. Eli Blake will be sorry to learn she was taken to Calgary Thursday to undergo a serious operation.

Dr. Walkey is sporting a fine new Essex car.

The Peace Club tea last Saturday was a great success, netting close to sixty dollars for the good of the cause.

Boys' Khaki Rep Bloomers, prices from 95c to $1.50, less money than the cloth costs at the mill to-day.—The Frank Brown Co.

A public meeting of Lomond citizens is called for Monday night, the 26th., for the consideration of holding a sports day celebration this year. Those interested in livening things up a bit are urged to be present.

Don't laugh at the color scheme in this issue. The Winnipeg strike held up our shipment of newsprint and we used this substitute rather than hold off publication. If we can secure paper from Calgary the next issue will be 14 pages, containing the first half of a very interesting story.

TEN YEARS BACK

While riding along in little ol' Doro then the other day it just occurred to us that it was ten years since we had first set foot in Alberta and started out to make our place in the sun by the old time-honored practice of homesteading. Between three and four o'clock on the morning of May 5th, 1909, we landed in Lethbridge and the wind was blowing up to standard. We came with the set purpose of locating a homestead and stayed with the game till the preliminaries were accomplished. It was just after the big land rush and vacant lands were not as easy to get track of as a few months previous. Along about the 15th, we got in touch with Bert Bowens from the Badger Lake district (deceased in 1915) and bummed a ride out to that famous belt. Right well we remember how it rained all the way out and finished up with a touch of snow just after we landed. We stayed a day for the weather to clear, looked over the prospective locations, and one afternoon started under our own steam back to Lethbridge to make a bet with Sir Wilfred Laurier.

We managed to get as far back as Worth Wiests just in time for supper and there stayed for the night. In our youth we were always regarded as having capacity of considerable magnitude and were working up to specifications.

From then on we made it a point to get around the Wiest G.H.Q. whenever we needed a place to stop for the night or for a meal. Since those days we have often tried to figure out how far Worth would be in the hole at the end of each year, if he only paid himself fifty cents a meal for board. Even though we were working right on schedule in regard for quantity he could invariably do a couple of plates better himself. If the whale enjoyed this capacity in proportion, he'd have no trouble with Jonah. Worth usually tried out a little vaudeville in his sleep every night. He was some teamster when under the influence of morpheus, and judging by the success that has crowned his efforts in the intervening years, his nightly vigils must have been but a reflection of his daily toils.

Getting back to our trip to Lethbridge, in the morning our feet were pretty raw but we refused to lay down on the job. After an hour or two on the road along came Father McCoomb, who was sort of a free lance missionary in the country. He very kindly gave us a lift of four or five miles, even though his horse didn't have anything on us for speed. Like the wearing of the cloth, the preacher's horse is an established tradition.

Down around Sundial post office we were left to wend our way as best we could and finally managed to get to the Little Bow. Our feet were a serious proposition about that time and the cold running water had the most soothing influence we have ever gotten next to. We were enjoying this process immensely when relief appeared. A big fat fellow by the name of Greenier picked us up in his wagon and we finished the trip under his chaperonage. Freight rates were low in those days and he only soaked us two bones for the accommodation. When we got to town we were quite convinced there was no upholstery on the thin edge of a wagon box.

In those days it was considered quite picturesque to sit out on the land office steps all night in order to get first place in the morning and be sure of your choice of land location. It has furnished the plot for many a wild and woolly letter back to the folks in the East. But of course we had to be in style.

Then came the oxen and equipment and the camping out on the way back. We thought the well in the road south of Turrin was right close to the Little Bow, so we bought a quart of milk early the first morning out, figuring to drive to the river before breakfast. Imagine our dismay when it took our worthy cattle nearly three hours to cover the distance.

On this same day we got our first taste of Alberta mosquitos. We had always eaten salt whenever listening to the tales of the Westerner about the mosquitos. While he may have exaggerated a little on the size of the brutes, nothing he ever said adequately described the numbers. They attacked in massed formation about half an hour after the sun broke through the clouds in the afternoon, and they gained their objective.

Another surprise that was in store for we green Easterners was the advent of the heel fly. Our first experience was in a sense humorous, but repeated attacks wore the joke away. Of all the examples of pre-digested, concentrated ambition, the heel fly beats anything we have ever seen. He can make the laziest ox we ever saw show up quite favorably with Maude S. in her palmiest days. Many a time on the breaking plow we longed for a few to release in a rear action.

Little did we picture the developments that have since taken place. Right well we remember George Witting striking out lands with his outfit of bulls, and there wasn't a fence from Sweet Valley north. It nearly scared us stiff when Witting passed us on the road with his high wheeled gasoline gig. In those days we expected to see a town at Bow City, thinking the mining advantages would draw financial interests that way. Towns or the lack of them did not bother us much. We had no wheat to haul out and had a three-times-a-week mail service.

Little did we realize the intricacies of business politics, or we might have then foreseen some other chance of outlet. The Irrigation company outbid the coal people, and the C.P.R. was not anxious to provide competition to their own mining interests by encouraging the development of mine holdings in the hands of rival companies.

We seldom ventured west of Bobby Harper's homestead. A mirage in the hills would scare a man stiff. Bill Manning used to pound out our plow lathes, but we never expected to be hauling wheat past his door to a seven mile market.

In our youth we were a thrifty young man. Religiously every week we banked five whole dollars for the benefit of the future. Homesteading broke up the habit and we have never been able to acquire anything like it since. We Canada Must Provide Money for Foreign Credits.

A large portion of the Canadian public has not yet realized how important a factor foreign credits have been in continuing good times.

Sir Thomas White recently said in Parliament: "Supposing the Dominion Government had said: No money for credit in Canada. What would happen? Our wheat, flour, beef, manufactured goods, cheese, and salmon could not be sold abroad, and the export business of this country would practically come to a standstill.

From whom has the Government received the money that has enabled it to grant these credits? From the people who have loaned it.

If foreign credits are to be continued and Sir Thomas says that they must be, for awhile, then the people must continue to lend their money to the Government. War Savings and Thrift Stamps make this easy, besides they pay well. To invest in them is good business for individual and the country.

Canada is experiencing severe labor disturbances right now. Winnipeg is in the grip of a general strike and labor is talking to the Canadian government just like a dutch uncle. We have a good deal of sympathy with the cause of labor and will welcome the day when the farmers are as well and strongly organized. We cannot help but feel that they are radical on a good many points, but perhaps not so much so as some of the institutions and individuals that have exploited the laboring classes. Labor wants to share the fruits of their efforts, over and above a mere hand-to-mouth existence, in which there is certainly room for improvement. However, there is one issue we take with the labor body. They talk to the government as if labor was a separate body politic. The war-times election act didn't disfranchise the labor class. They are as much a part of the government as any other class (providing they took conscientious advantage of the ballot). They don't need to set themselves up on a little tin pedestal and lay all the blame on the other fellow.

We must hand it out to the hail insurance men on their industry. Rather than look askance at their business acumen we should admire their spirit of push and go-ahead. Hail insurance is good business for the farmer as well as for the agent. The season is short and the agent almost has to auction of his business or get out of the running. Money spent in this class of protection is good business.

The council has built about as nice a piece of road as we have seen for some time, and it is to be hoped that it will not be neglected like a good many other grades around here. A road is a lot like a man's suit, it needs "tailoring" quite often to keep it in shape.

Now if this youthful stakeholder of Canada repeats his birthday performance every day for 20 years, he will have spent $1,025 for Thrift stamps, but he will collect at the end of that time just $2,963.30, or nearly treble his investment. Pretty soft for Mr. Youngest Owner is it not?

NOTES

The Canadian chartered banks do not take kindly to the agitation for banking reform. Of course any suggestions on banking coming from any source other than from the financial interests would be considered as disastrous; but the mere idea of a centralized dictatorial control of finances by the group of eastern capitalists is bound to encourage discontent. Then again, it is hard for the layman to understand why he should pay interest at eight and ten per cent on the money he borrows when the bank gets it at three from savings depositors and from all current accounts free. Checking privileges take out of circulation a great percentage of actual money. It only requires but five or six thousand dollars of currency to manipulate the business of the average small town bank. A sense of security is embodied in the Canadian banking system that constitutes its most commendable feature. However, we can even pay too high a price for safety insurance. If the bankers are alive to the game they will initiate a reform to meet—not combat—the exigency.

Though Lomond is singularly free from the like, grave complaints are coming in from different parts of the province over prostitution of the liquor traffic by members of the medical profession. In some cases this is brazenly apparent. The lure of coin was too strong and the liquor regulations made it easy for them to get away with it. Some sort of a check will have to be put on these men or it will stimulate contempt for the majesty of the law.

While war has for the time being discontinued the making of history, science and invention has in the last few days made indelible marks in the records of mere man's accomplishments. Airships have flown across the Atlantic. It is hard for us to appreciate the wonderful discoveries made within the memory of men still living. No doubt the future withholds as rich prizes as it did for those a hundred years back.

But why did Meighen and Robertson wait until after the Winnipeg strike started before leaving Ottawa? There doesn't appear to be anyone troubled with insomnia down there.

Men's Suits!

We have just received a line of good quality serges and worsteds from John W. Peck & Co. of Montreal. The blues are of a medium shade indigo, of double and twisted wool yarn, on a rather wide twill weave. This particular weave of serge will stand up better under knock-about condition than any other, and is good style too. Price - $38.00

The worsteds are black and white and brown broken checks, new patterns. These will give dandy service and keep shape and color. Price - $35.00

About the worsteds and tweeds we have in stock, and the very special prices we are able to offer, we have told you before—and these are better values today than ever. Look them over!

OVERALLS

Strong grey tweed, heavy weight, hard finish, made big and strong in the engineer style bib. We tried this cloth out last year in pants and it is a dandy. Price - $2.75

MEN'S WORK GLOVES, Clarke's Pliable Cherokeee Horse—a dandy. Price - $1.75

Cut Worms Busy

While a good many reports are coming in about cut worms there does not appear to be any general alarm over this nuisance. Their work is patchy but quite complete where found, but their numbers are not large enough to give any great concern. It might be a wise plan to formulate good resolutions to govern the spread of the pest. Clean summerfallow is the best method we have heard of. The moth lays her eggs in the protection of weeds or grass early in the fall, and if there are no weeds or grass she will not bother you much.
